CONTINUING THE LEGACY

The Cardinal looks to build off a successful season.

The Stanford Men's Golf Team enters the 2005-06 season with high expectations following a successful year in 2005 under the guidance of first-year head coach Conrad Ray. The Cardinal returns seven of the nine players that traveled as a team to the 2005 NCAA Championships and will add two talented rookies to the squad. The team will use its talent, experience, and enthusiasm to seek a competitive postseason at the 2006 NCAA Championships.

"We are looking to capitalize on the momentum we had from our good play last spring and our 18th place finish at the NCAA Championships," said Ray. "We will continue to focus our preparation and energy on the things that we can control and see what happens."

Seniors Kyle Gentry (Carmel, CA) and Scott MacDonald (Playa del Ray, CA) will provide leadership and experience for the Cardinal. Gentry has competed in 25 events while at Stanford, coming away with two-top 10 and five top-25 performances. He has recorded a 74.7 stroke average after three seasons on The Farm.

MacDonald has performed in 14 events while at Stanford and notched a 76.4 stroke average.

"Kyle Gentry and Scott MacDonald will be great senior leaders for us this year," said Ray. "Juniors Zack Miller, Matt Savage and Matt Shin should all make an impact as well."

Miller (San Rafael, CA) has enjoyed two solid seasons while at Stanford, including six top-10 and seven top-25 performances in 22 competitions. He recorded a 73.6 stroke average during the 2004-05 season and a low round of 67 at the Nelson Invitational. Savage (Scottsdale, AZ) has competed in 16 events in two years for the Cardinal for a 75.6 stroke average. Savage posted three par rounds during the 2004-05 season. Fellow junior Shin has completed six events while at Stanford, posting a 75.1 stroke average. During the 2004-05 season, Shin lowered his average to 73.6 and recorded a top-25 finish at The Nelson Invitational.

Senior Scott MacDonald will help lead the Cardinal this season.

Sophomore Rob Grube (Hinsdale, Ill.) made remarkable contributions to the Cardinal squad during his freshman campaign, finishing tied for fifth at the NCAA championships in Owings Mills, MD. Grube posted a third-round score of 65 at the NCAA West Regional to win the competition, Stanford's first West Regional champion since Tiger Woods in 1996. In his first season on The Farm, Grube participated in 13 events, recording six top-10 finishes and three top-25 finishes for a 71.8 stroke average.

"Rob Grube will look to expand upon the fantastic start to his collegiate career and should continue to improve," noted Ray. "The confidence that comes from being the Pac-10 Freshman of the Year and an Honorable Mention All-American will fuel his motivation."

Fellow sophomore Teddy Collins is also looking to improve upon a solid rookie season on The Farm. Collins participated in eight events for Stanford, recording two under-par rounds and a 76.0 stroke average for the season. He posted a season-low round of 69 at the Duck Invitational.

"Teddy has made big strides physically and will be part of the team's success," said Ray of Collins in 2005-06.

Arriving on The Farm in 2005-06 are newcomers Daniel Lim (Cupertino, CA) and Dodge Kemmer (Wichita, KS). A graduate of nearby Bellarmine Prep, Lim was a four-year letterwinner and three-time conference champion, as well as the 2005 California Interscholastic Federation individual champion. Lim was also an AJGA All-American in 2003 and 2004. Kemmer graduated from The Independent School in Wichita, where he was a four-year letterman and earned All-State honors during all four years of high school. He was the 2003 and 2005 Kansas Junior Amateur champion, as well as the 2003 and 2005 Kansas Junior Player of the Year Runner-Up.

Senior Kyle Gentry has posted a 74.7 stroke average while at Stanford.

"Freshman Daniel Lim and Dodge Kemmer will both try to equal their junior achievements in the college ranks as they make their first year transition," said Ray.

"We were able to add a few new tournaments to our schedule in the 2005-06 campaign. We will have a good amount of exposure throughout the year to all of the top ranked teams in the country and I believe that the exposure will pay off in the post season. We will travel nationally a good amount in the fall and concentrate on more of a regional schedule in the spring. Our schedule promises to be one of the best in the country."

The Cardinal will host the U.S. Intercollegiate in April at the Stanford Golf Course, presented by the Maple Fund. Stanford will then travel to the Pac-10 Championships in Palm Desert, CA at Big Horn Golf Club, hosted by USC. The 2006 NCAA West Regional, which was hosted by Stanford in 2005, will take place at the Tucson National Golf Club, followed by the NCAA Championship at Crosswater Golf Club at Sunriver Resort, Oregon in June. The Cardinal will look to use its experience in national competition to improve upon a strong NCAA finish in 2005.

Junior Zack Miller has recorded six Top-10 and seven Top-25 finishes in his career on The Farm.

CONRAD RAY

Head Coach

Conrad Ray, a former Cardinal golfer and touring golf professional, begins his second season as head coach of the Stanford men's golf program.

In his first season as head coach for the Cardinal, Ray led his squad its first NCAA Championship appearance since 2001. Under Ray's guidance, Stanford tied for 18th overall while freshman Rob Grube tied for fifth individually, becoming the first Stanford golfer to record a top five finish since 1998.

"We are excited to have Conrad Ray back on The Farm with our men's golf program," said Stanford athletic director Ted Leland. "Conrad is a great fit for Stanford and brings a wealth of knowledge of the game from his professional experience. As a former student-athlete and member of the 1994 NCAA Championship team, he understands what it takes to succeed here at Stanford University."

"I am very excited to have the opportunity to come back to Stanford and be a part of a program and university I hold in high esteem," said Ray. "I look forward to continuing the winning tradition and meeting the future challenges of the Stanford golf program. My experience here on The Farm was one that I cherish and look forward to affording new student-athletes the same great experience."

Ray is a 1997 graduate of Stanford University where he earned a bachelor of arts in Public Policy.

A three-year letterwinner for the Cardinal golf team, he was a member of the 1994 NCAA Champion golf team where he played with Casey Martin and Notah Begay. He captained the team in 1997 and was an All-Pac-10 and Pac-10 All-Academic selection that season as well. His senior year he posted six top 10 finishes and nine under-par rounds. Ray's 73.95 stroke average was second-best on the squad.

Ray was tapped to play in the U.S. Open at Pinehurst last June. He has played on the Nationwide Tour and other world tours since 1998 and achieved 12 top-10 finishes in that span. He has worked extensively with numerous golf instructors throughout the country and has organized and administered various pro-am and fund-raising golf tournaments, including the Karl Potach Memorial Tournament for children's cancer research and the Bart McCormick Classic.

Ray is married to the former Jennifer Woods.

2005-2006 Men's Golf Scholarships

Endowed Scholarships

Endowed scholarships are large sums of money that have been invested in the University's endowment and generate significant interest income each year. A portion of the income is spent on student aid and the remainder is reinvested in the principal. The following endowed scholarships, named for the donor or for someone the donor wishes to honor, provide full or partial grants-in-aid to members of the 2005-2006 men's golf team:

- The Berl/Tatum Scholarship Rob Grube
- The Robert J. Cardinal Scholarship Kyle Gentry,
Scott MacDonald
- The Henry Hinds '41 Memorial Scholarship Zack Miller
- The Raymond V. and Louise A. Knowles Scholarship Daniel Lim, Matt Savage

The Buck/Cardinal Club

Nearly $3 million is raised annually in scholarship funds through the gifts of the Club's 6,000 members. Over 250 volunteers assist the Athletic Department in its annual fund raising efforts.

2005-2006 Buck/Cardinal Club Executive Board:

- Kevin K. Richardson, Salinas, CA (Chairman)
- Michael P. Messina, Agoura, CA (Vice-Chairman)
- Christopher J. Martin, Palo Alto, CA (Secretary)
- Charles A. Evans II, Mountain View, CA
- Sarah L. Gaeta, San Jose, CA
- Jed E. Solomon, Menlo Park, CA

I had such a great time playing golf at Stanford. Just all the practicing, playing and qualifying. It was always competitive and a bunch of fun being around each other.

What sets Stanford apart is the combination of quality athletics with an unmatched educational experience. Our Provost was Condeleeza Rice. My economics teacher was one of President Clinton's advisors. You don't see that at most schools.

It was so intellectually stimulating to be challenged all the time. There was no way I could compete against some of those people. They were so smart. One kid had a photographic memory, and another built a computer from scratch.

Playing golf at Stanford prepared me in understanding time management skills. To make it through there, you have to manage your time. It's one of the great things I learned.

I really enjoyed being stimulated by the students and professors. Some were geniuses and other were Olympic athletes. It's amazing how well-rounded they are. That's what's so cool about it. You just soak up that experience. It was one of the best times of my life.

The Stanford Golf Course is among the finest private courses in the nation, with a spectacular view from the 18th tee which looks out toward the San Francisco skyline.

by Gordon I. Ratliff

The Stanford University Golf Course was designed in 1930 by renowned golf course architects William Bell and George C. Thomas, Jr. Located in the foothills above the Stanford University Campus, the golf course is consistently rated one of the finest courses in the world. In 1998, the golf course was rated 91st in the country by Golf Week Magazine and in 1993 was rated 88th in the world by Golf Magazine.

In the 1920s, Stanford students lobbied for a golf course. The golf team was using the Burlingame Course for practice and was coached by the Burlingame pro Harold Sampson. Luckily, the students found an enthusiast in Almon E. Roth '09, the University Controller, who had become hooked on the game and was a member of the Los Altos Country Club. In February 1929, he persuaded the Stanford University Board of Trustees to provide the land and finance the construction of a golf course at the University. Then he and Al Masters, the manager of the Athletic Department, hired George C. Thomas Jr. and William "Billy" Bell to design and build the course.

Roth had his own ideas as to the layout of the course, and when Bell arrived in March they walked the area. Bell immediately saw the possibility of incorporating San Francisco Creek into the design. Acquiring the land on the other side of the creek, which belonged to the Buck Estate, required a change in the California State Constitution to allow a land swap. Roth flew to Sacramento from the Palo Alto Airport in an open cockpit biplane to lobby for the change.

Thomas designed the course and Bell managed the construction. Bell traveled back and forth to Beverly Hills updating Thomas on his progress and getting further instructions. Thomas was ill and died a couple of years later having never seen the results of his effort.

Construction began in May of 1929, with great care being taken to preserve the oak trees. Ultimately, only 75 had to be removed. At that time, water for the irrigation of the campus came from Searsville Lake. Since a much greater quantity of water would be required for the golf course, Felt Lake was enlarged to a capacity of 278,000,000 gallons. By December the course was ready. "Dick" Templeton, the track coach who first used starting blocks in track meets, was in the first foursome on opening day, January 1, 1930.

The course cost $188,000 to design and build, and enlarging Felt Lake cost $190,000. The club house, which cost $54,000, was designed by the architects Bakewell and Brown, who had designed many buildings on campus, and were noted for designing City Hall in San Francisco. Club member Wells P. Goodenough was the contractor.

Billy Bell, George C. Thomas and Alistair McKenzie designed and oversaw the building of the Stanford Golf Course in 1929.

One unique feature of the course was Bell's bunker design, which included natural and undefined edges. The 12th hole is one of the most difficult in Northern California, having four trees down the middle of the fairway. The 18th tee is probably the most picturesque because of the spectacular view of San Francisco and almost the entire Bay Area.

Stanford University Golf Course is steeped in tradition. Throughout the years, Stanford has hosted many intercollegiate and non-collegiate events, including the Stanford Invitational, Pac-10 Championships, NCAA Western Regional, Women's NCAA Championships, USGA Junior Amateur Qualifying, U.S. Open Qualifying and a former Senior PGA Tour event, The Gathering at the Farm.

Stanford University Golf Course, which is currently ranked as the sixth best University Course by Golfweek Magazine, has also produced many influential golfers throughout the years. Such notables include former USGA presidents Sandy Tatum and Grant Spaeth, and PGA Tour professionals Tom Watson, Tiger Woods and Notah Begay III.

Did You Know??

Stanford hosted the first annual NCAA Women's Golf Championships in 1982. Nineteen five-women teams and 17 individuals — for a total of 112 players — entered the competition on the par-73, 5,903-yard course.

Stanford/Pepsi Women's Intercollegiate

The 2004 tournament marks the 41st year the Women's Fall Intercollegiate has been a part of the Stanford Golf Course tradition. The Cardinal has taken home the top prize in its own event four times: 1982, 1984, 1985 and 1997. Stanford's individual medalists include Joanne Pacillo in 1982, Kathy McCarthy in 1984, Julie Carmichael in 1985, Mhairi McKay tied for first place in 1995 and Hilary Homeyer in 1997.

Peg Barnard California Collegiate

This tournament began as the California Collegiate, but was renamed in honor of one of Stanford's strongest supporters, Peg Barnard. One of the most important legacies left behind by Barnard is the Buck/Cardinal Club, which she founded in 1978 and presided over in its initial few years. The Cardinal Club raised more than five millions dollars in its first decade. In recognition of her support, the University named the women's annual spring intercollegiate championships the Peg Barnard California Collegiate in 1997.

U.S. Intercollegiate

The Cardinal men have won this event 11 times since 1968, including a string of six in a row from 1970-1975. Ten individual titles have been won by nine golfers. they are Sandy Aldeman in 1968, Gary Vanier in '70, Tom Watson in '71, Mike Peck in '76, Mike Milliken in '90, Casey Martin in '95 and Joel Kribel in '96 and '97.

The Prestige at PGA West

Played at the Greg Norman Course in 2005, The Prestige consists of eighteen universities from across the United States who are dedicated to academic and athletic excellence. Stanford and University of California, Davis will co-host the event. Stanford finished sixth overall at The Prestige in La Quinta, CA last year with a total of 294.

Stanford University The University at a Glance

On October 1, 1891, the 465 new students who were on hand for opening day ceremonies at Leland Stanford Junior University greeted Leland and Jane Stanford enthusiastically, with a chant they had made up and rehearsed only that morning. Wah-hoo! Wah-hoo! L-S-J-U! Stanford! Its wild and spirited tone symbolized the excitement of this bold adventure. As a pioneer faculty member recalled, “Hope was in every heart, and the presiding spirit of freedom prompted us to dare greatly.”

Millions of volumes are housed in many libraries throughout the campus.

For the Stanford’s on that day, the university was the realization of a dream and a fitting tribute to the memory of their only son, who had died of typhoid fever weeks before his sixteenth birthday. Far from the nation’s center of culture and unencumbered by tradition or ivy, the new university drew students from all over the country: many from California; some who followed professors hired from other colleges and universities; and some simply seeking adventure in the West. Though there were many difficulties during the first months – housing was inadequate, microscopes and books were late in arriving from the East – the first year foretold greatness. As Jane Stanford wrote in the summer of 1892, “Even our fondest hopes have been realized.”

Ideas of “Practical Education”

Governor and Mrs. Stanford had come from families of modest means and had built their way up through a life of hard work. So it was natural that their first thoughts were to establish an institution where young men and women could “grapple successfully with the practicalities of life.” As their thoughts matured, these ideas of “practical education” enlarged to the concept of producing cultured and useful citizens who were well-prepared for professional success.

More than one hundred years later, the university still enjoys the original 8,180 acres (almost 13 square miles) of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords’ generous legacy, as well as the Quadrangle of “long corridors with their stately pillars” at the center of campus. It is still true, as the philosopher William James said, during his stint as a visiting professor, that the climate is “so friendly ... that every morning wakes one fresh for new amounts of work.”

Current Perspectives

In other ways, the university has changed tremendously on its way to recognition as one of the world's great universities. At the hub of a vital and diverse Bay Area, Stanford is an hour's drive south of San Francisco and just a few miles north of the Silicon Valley, an area dotted with computer and high technology firms largely spawned by the university's faculty and graduates. On campus, students and faculty enjoy new libraries, modern laboratories, sports facilities, and comfortable residences. Contemporary sculpture, as well as pieces from the Stanford Museum's extensive collection of sculpture by Auguste Rodin, is placed throughout the campus, providing unexpected pleasures at many turns. At the Stanford Medical Center, world-renowned for its research, teaching, and patient care, scientists and physicians are searching for answers to fundamental questions about health and disease. Ninety miles down the coast, at Stanford's Hopkins Marine Station on the Monterey Bay, scientists are working to better understand the mechanisms of evolution, human development, and ecological systems.

The university is organized into seven schools: Earth Sciences, Education, Engineering, the Graduate School of Business, Humanities and Sciences, Law and Medicine. In addition, there are more than 30 interdisciplinary centers, programs, and research laboratories – including the Hoover Institution on War, Revolution and Peace; the Institute for International Studies; the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center; and the Stanford Center for the Study of Families, Children and Youth – where faculty from a wide range of fields bring different perspectives to bear on issues and problems. Stanford's Overseas Studies Program offers students in all fields remarkable opportunities for study abroad, with campuses in Paris, Kyoto, Santiago, Berlin, Oxford, Florence, and Moscow.

Stanford People

By any measure, Stanford's faculty – which numbers approximately 1,700 – is one of the most distinguished in the nation. It includes 16 Nobel laureates, 4 Pulitzer Prize winners, 21 National Medal of Science winners, 132 members of the National Academy of Sciences, 223 members of the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, 80 members of the National Academy of Engineering, and 23 members of the National Academy of Education. Yet beyond their array of honors, what truly distinguishes Stanford faculty is their commitment to sharing knowledge with their students. The great majority of professors teach undergraduates both in introductory lecture classes and in small advanced seminars.

Currently 13,900 students, of which 6,500 are undergraduates, live and study on campus. About 40 percent come from California, but all 50 states and approximately 100 countries are represented as well. Among undergraduates, 44 percent are African American, Asian American, Hispanic or Native American. Like the faculty, the Stanford student body is distinguished. Approximately 10 students apply to Stanford for every place in the freshman class. Eighty-four Stanford students have been named Rhodes Scholars, 66 have been named Marshall Scholars, and 48 have been named Truman Scholars. Nearly 90 percent of graduating seniors plan to attend graduate or professional schools. Stanford students also shine in a tremendous array of activities outside the classroom – from student government to music, theater, and journalism. Through the Haas Center for Public Service, students participate in dozens of community service activities, such as tutoring programs for children in nearby East Palo Alto, the Hunger Project, and the Arbor Free Clinic.

In the athletic arena, Stanford students have enjoyed tremendous success as well. Stanford fields teams in 34 Division I varsity sports – equally divided between men's and women's teams. Of Stanford's 101 national team titles, 50 have been captured since 1990, by far the most in the nation. Thirty-eight of Stanford's athletes and coaches participated in the 1992 Olympics in Barcelona, 49 competed in Atlanta at the 1996 Games, 34 represented Stanford at the 2000 Games in Sydney – by far the most of any university in the nation – and 42 Stanford athletes competed at the 2004 Games in Athens. Intramural and club sports are also popular; over 1,000 students take part in the club sports program, while participation in the intramural program has reached 9,000, with many students active in more than one sport.

Looking Ahead

In her address to the Board of Trustees, in 1904, Jane Stanford said, “. . . Let us not be afraid to outgrow old thoughts and ways, and dare to think on new lines as to the future of the work under our care.” Her thoughts echo in the words of former Stanford President Gerhard Casper, who has said, “The true university must reinvent itself every day . . . At Stanford, these are days of such reconsideration and fresh support for our fundamental tasks – teaching, learning, and research.”

Stanford University still enjoys the original 8,100 acres of grassy fields, eucalyptus groves, and rolling hills that were the Stanfords' generous legacy.

Gateway to the San Francisco Bay Area and Beyond

From bustling cosmopolitan cities to quiet coastal retreats, the San Francisco Bay Area is incomparable. First-class attractions, world-class athletics, cultural diversity, remarkable skylines and breathtaking views make this region one of the world's most popular destinations.

And at the hub of this great region is Stanford University, located within an hour's drive of San Francisco to the north, Silicon Valley to the south and the coastal cities which line the Pacific Ocean to the west.

San Francisco has been named the world's top city twice and the country's top city on seven occasions. Surrounded by three sides of the Pacific Ocean and San Francisco Bay, San Francisco's compact 46 square miles crowd the tip of the San Francisco Peninsula. "The City" has a population of 730,000 and is the centerpiece of the San Francisco Bay Area, which is the nation's fifth largest metropolitan region and registers a population of over six million and hosts over 16 million visitors each year.

The City is a cultural wonderland, an ethnic treasure chest where custom, tradition and history are preserved, San Francisco's signature skyline dominates the San Francisco Bay Area, one of the world's most picturesque locations. The City is home to numerous attractions, including the world-famous cable cars, the TransAmerica Pyramid, Ghiradelli Square, PacBell Park, Coit Tower, and Lombard Street – the world's crookedest street.

celebrated and shared. From the vibrant counterculture in Haight-Ashbury to the young and glamorous tech survivors in their South of Market lofts, San Francisco is a golden dream come true.

Visitors and residents of San Francisco have a playground of diversity at their fingertips. Fisherman's Wharf, a must-see for all, includes waterfront marketplaces such as PIER 39, The Cannery and Ghiradelli Square. Golden Gate Park, Chinatown, North Beach, Union Square, Pacific Bell Park, the Embarcadero Center and, world famous cable cars and trolleys are just an example of what The City has to offer. The Golden Gate Bridge, San Francisco's signature landmark, looms as the gateway to the City by the Bay.

To the south of Stanford are Santa Clara and San Jose, the anchors to the Silicon Valley. Computer firms and software companies can be found throughout the region, which is considered the leader among the world's high technology industry. Lest you think that the valley is all business, though, spend a day at Paramount's Great America, delve into the wonders of technology at the Tech Museum of Innovation or explore the Winchester Mystery House.

One of the world's great stretches of coastline is located within a short drive from Stanford University. To the south is the Monterey Peninsula, which includes the picturesque coastal towns of Monterey, Carmel and Santa Cruz. The Monterey Bay Aquarium, Cannery Row and 17-Mile Drive along Pebble Beach are musts for visitors.

And if you bring your golf clubs, some of most famous golf courses can be found on the Monterey Peninsula, including Pebble Beach, Spyglass Hill and Cypress Point. The Beach Boardwalk, which features a historic wooden roller coaster, is located along the coast in Santa Cruz.

Further north along the coast is Half Moon Bay, Princeton-by-the-Bay, San Francisco and Marin County, located just across the Golden Gate Bridge. A short ferryboat ride past Alcatraz Island are the coastal towns of Tiburon, Larkspur and Sausalito.

A short drive north and east of Marin County gets you into the Napa Wine Country, home to dozens of well-known vintners. Within a few hours drive from the Bay Area is Lake Tahoe, home to some of the finest skiing in the country.

The Bay Area is also a mecca for some of the finest sports organizations in the nation. The Bay Area has two professional football teams (San Francisco 49ers, Oakland Raiders), two professional baseball teams (San Francisco Giants, Oakland A's), one professional soccer team (San Jose Earthquakes), one professional basketball team (Golden State Warriors) and one professional hockey team (San Jose Sharks)

Whether it's a cosmopolitan atmosphere, the cultural offerings of one of the great cities in the world, a visit to a coastal location, a trip to the Wine Country or skiing at Lake Tahoe, the San Francisco Bay Area remains one of the great destinations in the world today.

Just outside of the immediate Bay Area, Yosemite is a favorite destination.

Directors' Cup Champion of Champions

Caroline Bruce swept the breaststroke titles at the 2005 NCAA Women's Swimming and Diving Championships.

Stanford University captured its 11th consecutive NCAA Division I Sports Academy Directors' Cup in 2004-05. The award is presented annually by the National Association of Collegiate Directors of Athletics (NACDA) to the best overall collegiate athletic program in the country.

The Cardinal won three national team championships in 2004-05 (synchronized swimming, women's tennis, women's volleyball), while a total of 11 teams finished among the Top five nationally and 18 teams placed in the Top 10.

Stanford teams finishing in the Top 10 were synchronized swimming (1st), women's tennis (1st), women's volleyball (1st), men's swimming and diving (2nd), men's water polo (2nd), women's water polo (2nd), lightweight crew (5th), women's cross country (5th), women's swimming and diving (5th), women's outdoor track (5th), women's basketball (5th-T), men's cross country (6th), men's crew (7th), men's gymnastics (7th), women's sailing (7th), men's outdoor track (7th), women's indoor track (8th) and softball (9th-T).

Developed as a joint effort between USA Today and NACDA, the Sports Academy Directors' Cup is the only all-sports competition that recognizes the institution in each of the four categories with the best overall athletics program.
