Since Phil Neer (left) won his first title in 1921, Stanford has helped change the face of collegiate tennis. John McEnroe captured the 1978 NCAA singles title while leading Stanford to the team title. McEnroe became one of the most decorated players on the Pro Tour, capturing an amazing 17 singles and doubles Majors titles. Tim Mayotte won the 1978 NCAA singles title and went on to a world #7 pro ranking, as did Alex (Sandy) Mayer, who was a singles and two-time NCAA doubles champ. Jared Palmer captured the 1991 NCAA singles title and went on to score Majors titles in doubles and mixed doubles. The team celebrates the 1998 team title (upper right), led by Bob Bryan, who captured the NCAA singles title and teamed with brother Mike to capture the doubles title. The Bryans are currently the top doubles team on the professional tour.

Matt Mitchell (above) won the 1977 NCAA singles title and helped lead Stanford to its first NCAA title in the current six singles/three doubles format. KC Corkery (left) captured the 2004 NCAA doubles title and is a top returnee for Stanford.

Stanford University's tennis program has been the finest in the collegiate ranks for three decades. Coupled with unmatched team records in recent years, individual successes have also flourished under the tutelage of Director of Tennis Dick Gould and current head coach John Whitlinger. Scores of former Stanford players abound in the professional ranks.

Stanford Tennis History

Stanford University's tennis program has steadily developed into the premier program in the United States. Beginning with Phil Neer's national intercollegiate singles title in 1921, the next two decades saw Stanford amass 10 collegiate individual championships. In addition, Lin Murray, John Doeg and Ted Schroeder each captured the U.S. National Championships.

When Stanford's women's team joined an already successful men's program in 1975, no other school has claimed more NCAA team titles. Stanford has held a stranglehold on NCAA and national team trophies from 1973 to the present, capturing 17 men's and 14 women's titles. Either of Stanford's tennis teams has won more collegiate titles by itself than all other men's and women's teams combined during that time period.

Men Dominate Collegiate Tennis with 17 Championships

Under head coach Dick Gould, Stanford's men won NCAA team titles in 1973-74, '77-78, '80-81, '83, '86, '88-90, '92, '95-98 and 2000 to dominate collegiate tennis in that time period. No other collegiate tennis coach has won as many NCAA team titles (17) as Dick Gould (the NCAA Division I men's tennis all-time win leader), and only one collegiate coach has won more titles in a single sport (Al Scates, UCLA Men's Volleyball, 18 titles). A remarkable note is that any player who competed for Stanford during any four-year period from 1969-2003 has at least one NCAA Championship ring to his credit. Since the NCAA initiated its team championship playoff in 1977, Stanford has won 15 of the 29 tournaments held and finished second twice. In 26 national championship appearances, the Cardinal has racked up an unbelievable 89-12 (.881) dual match record.

Stanford has dominated collegiate tennis in recent years, passing USC (16 NCAA team titles) and UCLA (15). The Cardinal's 13 singles championships since 1921 is second on the all-time list, while its 14 doubles titles ranks third.

Men's Tennis (since 1972)

- Seventeen NCAA team titles
- Four NCAA team runners-up
- Ten NCAA singles titles
- Seven NCAA doubles titles
- 50 All-American selections
- 89-12 (.881) dual match record in NCAA team championship tourney
- Dual match record of 723-122 (.856)
- 52-32 record vs. USC; 46-40 record vs. UCLA
- Undefeated dual seasons in '78 (24-0), '95 (27-0) and '98 (28-0)
- Four NCAA Triple Winners (team, singles & doubles in same year) – Alex Mayer ('73), John Whitlinger ('74), Alex O'Brien ('92), Bob Bryan ('98)

Ted Schroeder – National Intercollegiate Champion - singles (1942), doubles (1942, with Larry Dee); United States Champion - singles (1942), doubles (1940, '41, and '43), mixed doubles (1947); Wimbledon Champion - singles (1949). He remains active in international tennis affairs and resides in La Jolla, CA.

Dan Goldie (left) captured the 1986 NCAA title while guiding Stanford to the team title. Alex O'Brien (top) won the NCAA singles, doubles and team title in 1992, and went on to star on the Davis Cup and U.S. Olympic teams while also capturing a pair of doubles Majors titles. Ryan Wolters (bottom) teamed with K.J. Hippensteel (far right) to win the 1999 NCAA doubles title. Jonathon Stark (middle right) was a NCAA doubles finalist with Jared Palmer in 1991. Stark went on to capture the 1994 French Open Doubles title, earned a world #1 doubles ranking, and represented the U.S. Davis Cup team in 1994, '95 and '97.

Stanford has captured an amazing 17 NCAA Men's Tennis titles.

STANFORD School of Champions

Few coaches in the history of Division I athletics have obtained the level of success that Stanford men's tennis Head Coach Dick Gould has achieved. After 38 years and 17 national titles, the legendary coach retired at the end of the 2003-04 season. However, Gould is very much involved with Stanford tennis as he assumed the position of The John L. Hinds Director of Tennis for the university, and was instrumental in securing the bid to host the first-ever combined men's and women's NCAA tennis championships at Stanford in 2006. Longtime associate head coach, John Whitlinger, who was an NCAA Singles and Doubles Champion on The Farm, took over the head coaching duties following the 2004 season.

"Stanford has provided me with an incredible 38-year journey," said Gould. "I will be forever indebted to the wonderful young men with whom I had the great pleasure to work, and who in turn have taught me so much and made my life so rich. As for the future, I am looking forward to the continuing privilege of serving this fantastic university and Stanford Athletics as the Director of Tennis. There is much to be done as we strive to maintain and improve our tradition of excellence, and I am thankful the Department of Athletics has afforded me the opportunity to be an integral part of this."

Throughout the years, Gould, the John L. Hinds Director of Tennis, has proven himself to be one of the top collegiate tennis coaches in the nation. Gould was honored by Wilson Sporting Goods and the ITA as "Coach of the Decade" in men's collegiate tennis during the 1980s and again for the 1990's. The award is fitting as Gould's Stanford teams captured six NCAA team titles in both the 80's and 90's. Gould was also named the 2000 NCAA Coach of the Year.

Under the tutelage of Gould, some of the world's finest tennis players have developed their games at Stanford. A list of former players reads somewhat like a Who's Who in Professional Tennis. Nine of his players have reached the top 15 in world singles rankings and 14 have reached the top 10 in the world in doubles (seven of these players have attained the world's #1 ranking). In NCAA competition, 15 different Stanford players have reached the finals, and 12 others have reached the semifinals of the NCAA singles tournament while playing for Gould. Under Gould's watch, 12 players have captured the national championship, while another 10 players have finished as national doubles runner ups in the NCAA doubles tournament. Fifty of his players have earned All-America honors. The Cardinal men's team has finished in the NCAA top five in 29 out of the last 35 years. In NCAA team competition, Stanford has won 88 of 99 (.889) matches during the 26 years in which it was invited to participate.

On three occasions, Stanford has captured back-to-back NCAA titles-1973-74, 1977-78 and 1980-81. The Cardinal won three consecutive team titles from 1988-90 and four in a row from 1995-98. Three Gould-coached squads have recorded unblemished records in 1998 (28-0), 1995 (27-0) and 1978 (24-0), and five times his teams have lost only one match.

The 1998 team is regarded by many as one of the best all-time teams, posting a 28-0 record while losing just three points the entire year. For his efforts leading the team, Gould earned ITA/Wilson Intercollegiate Coach of the Year honors and was named the U.S. Olympic Committee Coach of the Year in 1998.

Gould is renowned not only for his coaching and recruiting skill, but also as a pioneer in the collegiate tennis world. The 67-year-old coach initiated major college indoor matches in 1974, opening the doors of Stanford's spacious Maples Pavilion in matches that attracted 7,500 fans to view collegiate competition in the comfort of an indoor arena.

Gould also spearheaded campaigns to raise $17 million for the building of the Taube Tennis Center. The Taube Family Tennis Stadium provides permanent loge-type theater seating for 2,500 spectators, locker room facilities for home and visiting teams, an indoor practice range as well as a championship indoor court. The prestigious Orsak Family Heritage Room houses the 32 national championship men's and women's team trophies earned in the past 33 years. It also features a mural of all individual national collegiate champions. The extensive seminar space has been funded by the Koret Foundation and the Rick and Donna Fluegal Family Foundation, and furnished largely by the Bernard Osher Foundation. The Gwen and Victor Riches family has been instrumental in the development of additional tutorial and office space to better serve the renowned East Palo Alto Tennis and Tutoring Program, an inner city outreach program, based at Taube. The Taube Family Tennis Stadium was the site of the NCAA Women's Tennis Championships in 1991, 1992, 1997 and 2002. Additionally, Gould has been instrumental in bringing world-class tennis events to the Taube Family Tennis Stadium including the WTA's Bank of the West Classic, the 1999 Fed Cup Final, the Siebel

Champions and the World Team Tennis National Collegiate Championship.

Gould was also the driving force behind the acquisition of one of the nation's first electronic scoreboards in 1983, which has now been replaced by the Phil and Penny Knight Scoreboard. This unique scoreboard has the capability to control and display scores from 11 different court locations at the same time to all match spectators and convey these results as they happen on the Stanford athletic web site - www.gostanford.com - to tennis fans and friends of Stanford tennis world-wide. The Russ and Jackie Thompson video center is another unique feature of the facility.

"Courtside With the Stars" was another brainchild of Gould's. John McEnroe, Roscoe Tanner, Sandy Mayer, Nick Saviano, Pat Dupre, Tim Mayotte, Peter Rennert, Gene Mayer, John Whitlinger and Scott Davis are among the tennis alums who have returned to aid Gould in his fundraising effort through the "Courtside With the Stars" exhibition matches.

Gould is also an accomplished author, and the most recent edition (sixth) of his instructional book, Tennis Anyone?, remains one of the most popular guides ever. He has also produced an instructional series for television. He is featured in the instructional video "Better Tennis For Life."

Gould has been recognized for his service both to tennis and to the community. He was awarded the prestigious Kenneth M. Cuthbertson Award for "Exceptional service to Stanford University" in 2002. He was presented with the Volvo "Service to Tennis" Award in 1989 as well as the "Linda Meier Service Award", presented by the Peninsula Center for the Blind. He was presented with the Educational Merit Award in 1983 by the United States Tennis Association. In 1966, the Lifetime Sports Foundation honored Gould as one of 25 master clinicians for teaching tennis seminars.

Gould did his undergraduate and graduate work at Stanford where he was a Dean's list scholar and a Master's degree recipient. He was awarded the Buck Club's leadership award for tennis in 1960.

After graduating from Stanford, Gould taught for two years at Mountain View High School, serving as tennis coach and assistant football coach. In 1962, he moved to Foothill College to become head tennis coach, where his teams won state championships in 1964 and 1965. From 1960 through 1966, he was the tennis professional at the Fremont Hills Country Club in Los Altos Hills. He co-founded the Mid-Peninsula Tennis Patrons Association in 1962 and served as its first president. He has served on the Advisory Committee of the USA Tennis High Performance Coaches' Program and the East Palo Alto Tennis and Tutoring Program. He is a board member of Northern California's Youth Tennis Advantage and U.S. Sports Camps, and has contributed to Sports Education Network. He serves on the National Advisory Board of the Positive Coaching Alliance and is a Board Member of First Serve.

Gould was named an honorary member of the U.S. Professional Tennis Association in 1981. He joined Frank Brennan as co-recipient of the first USPTA NorCal Lifetime Achievement Award in 2004. In 1967 he served as president of the NorCal Professional Tennis Association. He was inducted into the Ventura County Athletic Hall of Fame in 1990, the Northern California Tennis Hall of Fame in 1992 and the Stanford Athletic Hall of Fame in 1994. In 2006, Gould was inducted into the Bay Area Sports Hall of Fame and the International Tennis Hall of Fame.

Gould hosted four U.S. Junior Davis training camps at Stanford University in the late 60's and early 70's. He directed the USTA National Junior training camp in 1985, 1986 and 1987. He currently directs Nike Tennis Camps at Stanford. He has conducted tennis clinics in Europe, Mexico, the Caribbean, China, Japan and Central America.

Gould and his wife, Anne, the former Stanford University women's tennis coach from 1976-79 who led the Cardinal to its first women's national team championship in 1978, and is currently a senior lecturer in physical education at Stanford, reside in Menlo Park. Their daughter, Kim, led the Harvard volleyball team as captain in 2004 and has also performed as a member of the highly acclaimed Crimson Dance Team. Gould has three other daughters: Susan, a tennis playing graduate of Princeton University; Sheryl, a graduate of Stanford; and Karin, a graduate of the University of Southern California who earned All-America honors as co-captain of the Women of Troy's swim team. Gould's son, Rick, was co-captain of the Stanford swim team, an All-American, and former American record holder in the 200 medley relay.

John Whitlinger

Men's Tennis
Head Coach

1974 NCAA Singles & Doubles Champion

1999 Collegiate Tennis
Hall of Fame Inductee

John Whitlinger, a two-time All-American at Stanford, who has established himself as one of the nation's top collegiate coaches, is in his second season as Head Coach of the Cardinal after serving 18 seasons as the associate to Dick Gould. Whitlinger took over the Head Coaching duties in 2005 from Gould, who assumed the position of Director of Tennis for the university.

Under the tutelage of the pair over an 18 period (1987-2004), the Cardinal posted a 396-58 (.872) record and claimed nine NCAA team titles.

"I am honored to be the head coach at Stanford," said Whitlinger. "I hope to maintain the excellence that Coach Gould started 39 years ago. I have learned so much from him as a player and as his assistant coach. I am forever grateful for all he has done for me. He has been an incredible friend and mentor. We have formed a great team here at Stanford and I'm thrilled that he is still be a part of the program as the Director of Tennis."

One of the nation's top teaching professionals, Whitlinger is co-director of the famous Stanford Tennis School. He was awarded the inaugural National ITA Assistant Coach of the Year in 1997 and was inducted into the ITA Collegiate Hall of Fame in 1999 and the Fox River Valley (Wisconsin) Tennis Hall of Fame in 1998.

"John has been instrumental in helping Stanford continue its national success," said Gould. "We are blessed to have a coach of John's caliber associated with Stanford. He is without question one of the top coaches in the world."

As an athlete, Whitlinger helped lead Stanford to its first two NCAA Championships in men's tennis in 1973 and 1974. In 1974, he won the NCAA Singles Championship, teamed with Jim Delaney to win the NCAA Doubles Championship, and helped lead Stanford to the NCA Team Championship. Whitlinger, a member of Stanford's Athletic Hall of Fame, earned All-America honors in 1974 and 1975.

After his collegiate career, Whitlinger was an international touring professional for six years and was ranked among the top 50 in the world in singles and top 40 in doubles. He also played for the Indiana Loves of the World Team Tennis League. He now teams up with 21-year old son J.J., and the duo is ranked No. 3 in the nation in the National Father-Son Rankings. In 2002 and 2003, they won the prestigious Agawam Hunt Club Tournament in Providence, Rhode Island, and were quarterfinalists at the National Grass Court Championships in Brookline,

John Whitlinger has been responsible for 11 NCAA titles at Stanford – two as a player and nine as an assistant under Dick Gould.

Massachusetts and at the National Clay Court in Cincinnati, Ohio.

From 1981 to 1986, Whitlinger was a head professional at the Racquet Club at Harper's Point in Cincinnati, Ohio. He ranked in the top five in men's singles play in the United States Professional Teaching Association (USPTA) – the national association of teaching professionals.

The Whitlinger family was named the National Tennis Family of the Year in 1986. Whitlinger's father, Warren, who celebrated his 90th birthday this year, has coached numerous junior tennis players in Wisconsin and currently works with players on the mental aspects of the game. His sister Wendy is the Director of Tennis at Fox Cities Racquet Club in Appleton, Wisconsin. Whitlinger's sister-in-law, Ruth, manages the club and his brother Kip has coached tennis at the high school level in Menasha, Wisconsin. His nieces, Teri and Tami, both attended Stanford and currently reside in Tampa. Teri captured the 1990 NCAA Doubles Championship, and Tami was ranked among the world's top-40 players as a professional. Both spent time as teaching professionals following their playing careers.

Whitlinger, a native of Neenah, Wisconsin, came to Stanford in 1972 as one of the top junior players in the country. During his high school career, Whitlinger won an amazing 109 consecutive matches en route to four straight state singles championships (1969-72). He holds 11 National Junior Titles, including the 1971 Interscholastic Championship and the prestigious International Orange Bowl Championship in 1969 and 1970. He was also a member of the U.S. Junior Davis Cup teams from 1970-74.

Whitlinger and his wife of 25 years, Jan, have two children: 22-year old son, J.J., who graduated from St. Mary's College in 2005 and is currently a volunteer assistant coach with the Cardinal, and 20-year old daughter, Claire, who is a junior at George Washington University in Washington, DC and is majoring in sociology.

David Hodge enters his second season as assistant men's tennis coach.

David Hodge is in his second season on the Stanford men's tennis coaching staff after serving as the top assistant and recruiting coordinator at the University of Colorado in 2003 and '04.

During his time in Boulder, Hodge coached the 2004 Region VII Freshman of the Year and helped the Buffaloes to a No. 4 regional ranking, while also serving as the director of the University of Colorado Tennis Camp. Hodge, who brings a wealth of collegiate and professional experience to The Farm, will serve as the top assistant on head coach John Whitlinger's staff for the 2005-06 season.

"Dave is an accomplished player with an incredible love for the game," stated head coach John Whitlinger. "I feel that he is one of the best assistant coaches in the country, and his technical knowledge and strength of character will bring energy and enthusiasm to the program. I'm looking forward to coaching with him on The Farm."

As a professional, Hodge competed on the ITF and ATP circuits for two years. He played in the main draw at the 2002 Australian Open Grand Slam tournament, and was a finalist for the 2001 Australian Unity Destiny Medal, awarded annually to the most outstanding player on the Australian Satellite, Future, and Challenger circuits. Hodge won doubles titles in five different international tournaments, and put together a streak of 21 straight wins in doubles competition.

On the open circuit, Hodge claimed the Colorado State Open singles title in 2003, and reached the finals in the doubles tournament. He was the recipient of the 2003 Jim Landin Award, presented to the USTA Intermountain Section/Colorado District Male Player of the Year. Hodge also earned Denver City Open titles in both singles and doubles competition in 2003. He teamed with Colorado head coach Sam Winterbotham to win the doubles championship at the Colorado State Open in July of 2004.

Prior to his tenure as a professional, Hodge enjoyed an All-American career at Baylor University from 1997-2001. He was a four-time All-Big XII selection and earned conference titles as a singles and doubles competitor, while leading the Bears to the Big XII Conference title in 2000. Hodge helped bring Baylor tennis to national prominence, as the Bears advanced to the final eight of the 1999 NCAA Tournament and the Sweet-16 of the 2000 NCAA Tournament. In individual competition, he received a No. 2 ITA doubles ranking and was ranked as high as No. 54 as a singles competitor. Hodge also garnered Academic All-Big XII honors four times during his career in Waco, and graduated with a bachelor's degree in Health Science Studies with an emphasis on Physical Therapy.

A native of Maryborough, Queensland, Hodge represented Australia four times as a junior competitor and spent time as the nation's No. 2 ranked Under-18 tennis player. He earned a Queensland State High School Championship in 1996, and represented Queensland eight times during his junior career, twice serving as the team captain.

Assistant Coach

J.J. Whitlinger, son of Cardinal head men's tennis coach John Whitlinger, is in his first season as a Volunteer Assistant Coach for the men's tennis program. The younger Whitlinger is a recent graduate of St. Mary's College in Moraga, Calif., where he was a four-year member of the Gael's tennis program.

J.J., which stands for John, Jr., earned a bachelor's degree in Politics from St. Mary's in June, 2005. He was an All-Conference doubles player, team captain as a senior and the team's Most Inspirational Player as a sophomore and junior.

He attended Menlo-Atherton High School before attending St. Mary's. J.J. was a four-time First-Team All-Pacific Athletic League selection, two time league champion (singles as a senior and doubles as a freshman), four-time team MVP and three-year team captain. He also led his team to the Central Coast Section championships on two occasions. As a senior, J.J. earned all-conference honors in football as a wide receiver and return specialist and was named his high school's Male Athlete of the Year.

The Whitlingers played together as a father-son doubles team and were ranked as high as No. 3 in the country a few years ago. John, Sr., of course, is a former NCAA singles and doubles champion for Stanford who took over for Dick Gould as the team's head coach in 2005.

STANFORD Tennis '06

Three-time All-American and 2004 NCAA doubles champion KC Corkery (left) teams with talented third-year starter James Pade to lead the Cardinal in 2006.

One look at the Cardinal's 2006 roster and it's evident Stanford is a different team than a year ago. That's because the Cardinal has six new faces, included two players who redshirted last year, a talented group of freshmen and several key returnees.

For second year head coach John Whitlinger, there is reason for optimism.

"We have much better depth than we did last year," said the former Stanford All-American. "We've got good experience returning and we've added a lot from last year with two returning redshirts and a good freshman class. I think we have a chance to be there at the end," he said.

And so do Cardinal fans as Stanford's Taube Tennis Stadium will be the host site of the 2006 Men's and Women's NCAA Championships, May 18-29.

"We've got competition at the bottom of the lineup," said Whitlinger, "and when we've won championships in the past, that's what we've had. Some guys got a lot of experience last year. It may have been a year early, but it should pay off this year. We've got solid experience at the top of our lineup, great competition and a solid freshman class.

The Schedule

The Cardinal will be tested early and often in 2006 as the schedule does not allow Stanford to ease into the season. In fact, it begins with a bang. National powerhouses USC and UCLA visit Taube Tennis Stadium on February 3 and 4.

"We've never played UCLA and USC so early in the season," says Whitlinger. Those two matches will get our attention quickly."

Another early season test for the Cardinal will be a February 25 match against defending NCAA runner-up Baylor. On March 29, Stanford will play Illinois indoors in Champaign in what will be a tremendous challenge for the Cardinal.

"Baylor and Illinois are two of the top teams in the country," said Whitlinger. "Baylor has been in the NCAA final match the past two years and playing at Illinois, in their indoor facility, will be a huge challenge for us."

Stanford will also host three evening home matches this season, something Whitlinger says his players are excited about. The Cardinal will host UC Irvine on February 10, Baylor on February 27 and Fresno State on April 11 – all beginning at 5:00 pm at the Taube Tennis Stadium.

The highlight of the 2006 season will be the first-ever combined men's and women's NCAA Tennis Championships that will be held at Stanford from May 18-29.

Singles

The Cardinal's starting lineup will feature three-time All-American KC Corkery and junior James Wan along with returning All-American James Pade and freshman Matt Bruch, who made an immediate mark on the national scene this past fall.

Those four – who are all ranked among the top 15 in the West – could form the top of Stanford's lineup. Corkery enters the year ranked second in the West, Bruch is No. 3, Pade No. 10 and Wan No. 15.

Corkery, of course, is a seasoned veteran who enters his senior season as a definite threat to win the NCAA singles crown. He won the NCAA doubles crown in 2004 and was a semifinalist a year ago.

"KC is a very smart player," says Whitlinger. "It's almost like having another coach on the court. He is our team captain this year and I expect him to have a tremendous season. He is a definite threat to win the NCAA singles championship."

Bruch made himself known immediately this past fall as he won 10 of 12 matches, beating seven ranked players along the way, while advancing to the semifinals of the All-American Championships and the quarterfinals of the National Indoors.

"I think Matt is the best freshman in the country," said Whitlinger. "Based on what he did this fall, it makes him one of the top players in the nation. He has put himself in position to compete for the NCAA singles title."

One of the biggest reasons for optimism on The Farm is the return of Pade, a junior who decided to redshirt the 2005 season. A starter for the Cardinal as a freshman and sophomore in 2003 and 2004, Pade's return helps bolster Stanford's lineup with another quality player capable of making an impact in both singles and doubles.

"It's great to have James back on the team," said Whitlinger. "He's a big-time player, period. He and KC Corkery will form one of the nation's top doubles teams and will challenge for the NCAA championship."

Men's Tennis 2006 Outlook

Freshman Matt Bruch advanced to the semifinals of the All-American championships and the quarterfinals of the Indoor Championships.

Wan has been in the starting lineup the past two seasons and his continued improvement will play a key role for the Cardinal in '05. He enters the year with an impressive 57-19 singles record

"James is a winner. His record speaks for itself," says Whitlinger. "I see no reason why he won't have the same kind of year he's had for us in the past."

Filling out the rest of the singles lineup will be very competitive. Returning starters Phil Kao and Eric McKean will be tested by three freshman and three veterans, who are all looking to fill the No. 5 and No. 6 singles slots.

Both Kao, a sophomore, and McKean, a junior, shared the No. 5 and No. 6 positions a year ago. Kao, from nearby Archbishop Mitty HS, started in all 25 dual matches a year ago. He began the 2005-06 campaign this past fall by winning six of seven matches, including the Bronco Classic, and is, according to Whitlinger, "the most improved player on the team."

McKean received tremendous experience last year as he started in 22 dual matches. "He will definitely be a factor in our lineup this year," says Whitlinger.

Other returning veterans include Jon Wong, a senior from Los Altos, Calif., junior David Ryan and sophomore Chris Rasmussen.

Wong, who will compete for playing time both in singles and doubles, was a solid contributor last year and has the potential to play a more prominent role this year.

James Wan was the 2004 Pac-10 Freshman of the Year and is looked to be a top performer for the Cardinal in 2006.

Rasmussen received a lot of playing time in both singles and doubles as a freshman in 2004, but decided to redshirt the '05 season. His return not only helps bolster Stanford's overall depth, but it gives the Cardinal another player capable of making a strong contribution this season.

Men's Tennis 2006 Outlook

Ryan saw limited action in 2005 and he, too, will compete for increased playing time this season.

Along with Bruch, the freshman class includes Blake Muller from Santa Barbara, Calif., Ken Kao from Cupertino, Calif., and Jeff Zeller from Centennial, Colo.

Muller, who won five of seven matches this past fall, is a two-time prep All-American who "has a big future ahead of him," according to Whitlinger. Muller is in the mix to compete for a significant role in both singles and doubles. Kao is also a two-time high school All-American while Zeller comes to Stanford as the No. 1 prep player in Colorado last year.

"I feel we can now win matches in singles, which is something we had trouble doing last year. If we lost the doubles point last year, it became difficult for us to win matches," said Whitlinger. "I really like our team, the chemistry we have both on and off the court. The competition we have within the team will only make us better. We have good talent on this team and if we continue to improve, we can compete for the national championship."

Doubles

While Corkery and Pade enter the season as one of the top doubles teams in the nation, Stanford must find a way to become more consistent at doubles if they are to challenge for the NCAA title.

"Doubles are an area of emphasis for us this year," said Whitlinger. "We have more depth than we did last and are much improved. We will put a lot of time and energy into improving our doubles play in 2006."

Whitlinger knows he can count on Corkery and Pade to be among the best in the country. "With their past record of success, they could be a threat to win the NCAA title," he said.

But putting the pieces together with the other doubles combinations will be a key factor for Stanford in 2006.

"The other doubles spots are a work in progress," said Whitlinger.

"We have a lot of new faces and we have to find out which combinations play best together."

John L. Hinds

Endowed Directorship of Tennis

The estate of the late John L. Hinds – a strong supporter of Stanford Tennis – provides not only a fully funded endowed tennis scholarship, but a complete endowment for the position of Director of Tennis, currently held by Dick Gould. Hinds, an avid tennis player and coach, taught high school math for 27 years. His estate also established an endowed scholarship and the John L. Hinds Professorship in the History of Science.

Peter and Helen Bing

Endowed Directorship of Women’s Tennis

The position of head women’s tennis coach at Stanford has been endowed through a gift from Dr. and Mrs. Peter Bing of Los Angeles (pictured at right). Their gift establishes the Peter and Helen Bing Directorship of Women’s Tennis, currently held by Lele Forood.

The Bings have been supporters of Stanford University for decades and have also been long-time supporters of Cardinal athletics. In addition to endowing the Director of Women’s Tennis position, Peter and Helen Bing established endowed funds for the Director of Women’s Basketball and four scholarships for female student-athletes.

Irving and Pat Deal

Tennis Center Maintenance Endowment

A significant endowment has been started to help ensure the quality and timely maintenance and repair of the beautiful Taube Family Tennis Stadium by former Stanford University Trustee and Athletic Board Member Irv Deal (pictured at right) and his wife Pat, of Dallas, Texas. This is in addition to the Irving C. Deal scholarship for men’s tennis.

Stanford Community Support

Stanford Tennis is especially indebted to its benefactors (donors of $50,000 or more). Included in this list are Stanford Tennis Stadium Renovation Donors, Scholarship Donors, and people who have listed Stanford Tennis in their estate planning. These uncommon supporters of Stanford Tennis are recognized by individual plaques at the main entrance to the Taube Family Tennis Stadium, made possible by a gift from Susan Ure, in loving memory of her husband Gary. Special thanks for making our program and excellence possible!

Chairs in Stanford Tennis' "Rows of Champions" commemorate a player's participation in the Stanford tennis program. These chairs are located in the central featured section of the Stanford Tennis Stadium. Proceeds from the subscription of these $5,000 chairs help to defray capital building costs of the Stanford tennis program. Each chair is "personalized" with up to a five line inscription. These "Rows of Champions" provide almost a museum of Stanford Tennis history. Over 140 program participants honored thus far and are listed by the decade of their graduating class (bold indicates chairs established in the past year).
